Previous ArticleShow AllNext article Cinemas is slowly reopening, but most new releases are headed to streaming services rather than the big screen. Whether you're staying home to limit potential risks or saving just a few dollars from watching from the couch, we've organized a huge list of newly added movies and some upcoming titles. New this week: This is the last batch of new releases before Halloween, so you know there will be many horrors to keep you staring shadows long into the night. This just so happens to be the two biggest releases of the week in the theme and sequel. Let's start with Craft: Legacy, obvious cash-in for Classic. The reviews weren't particularly generous, but it's there if you feel inclined. If you feel the need for raw action with a great help from zombies, Train Busan Presents: Peninsula will get fans off the train and racing through the city. And if you're down to real horror, Tobin Bell (Saw) and his perfectly deranged voice are out for revenge on The Call. If you're exhausted from the non-stop stream of scary movies, or you just have to forget there's 2 months left in 2020, there are some comedies to start laughing at. Holidate is a formula romcom, if ever there was one, borrowing the site straight from friends with benefits, but it's going to get the job done. It slipped through the cracks last week, but if you liked the original Borat, you're obviously going to be watching Borat Later Film. And we'll find Bill Murray teaming up with Rashida Jones on On The Rocks for an interesting comedy about a relationship that's not going so well. If you just need some filler action, you might want to check out Narco soldiers. It's hard to say, but the preview suggests that this might actually be a serious plot of beer. Something heartfelt, The True Adventures of Wolfboy looks like a strange movie about sleeping hit possible. And if you want an adventure in the Mediterranean with some unusual twists and turns, S.O.S. Survive or Sacrifice can be a good option. And as the temperature drops, many people can't wait to get some sports in front of their eyes. Look at Huck yes! Follow some of the best snowboarders and skiers as they tell stories and ride in the dust. Even if he can take the opportunity to learn from his idols and overcome the challenges, Will still has to decide whether to continue the life he has, or pursue the one he has always dreamed of - the life of a comedian. Alone Horror, Thriller | Streaming: October 16 | IMDb Starring: Donald Sutherland, Tyler Posey, Robert Ri'chard When an epidemic hits, Aidan barricades himself in his apartment and starts rationing food. The complex is run over by infected Screamers, and the world falls apart in chaos, he is left all alone fighting for his life. Cody's Review: If romantic comedies are called RomComs, what is this RomHor? No, let's not do that. It may be horror alone, but it doesn't feel that way. There's definitely a nervous energy, but it's often cut to the friendly and funny interactions between our lonely characters. It's like a good magagic version of zombie apocalypse. Just ready to suspend your faith as the characters routinely do stupid things and sometimes lack obvious clues. Tyler Posey (Teen Wolf) is a little stiff in his performance, but you can get over it after the first few minutes. Meanwhile, Donald Sutherland's limited time on screen comes in the form of an almost Oscar-worthy performance full of a wonderful old man's quirkiness and charm. I can't say Alone is a must-see, but I liked it and I recommend it to anyone that isn't sensitive to zombie chase scenes and pandemic-induced loneliness. You will find it easy to nit-pick small mistakes and a somewhat restrictive budget, but the story is engaging and kinda funny in unexpected ways. Amazon | Microsoft | Google Play | Voodoo | FandangoNOW Clouds Drama, Music | Streaming: October 16 | IMDb Starring: Fin Argus, Sabrina Carpenter, Madison Iseman An inspiring true story, young musician Zach Sobiech discovers cancer only a few months to go. As the thieves become increasingly desperate and violent, the doorman calls on her deadly fighting skills to end the show-down. Cody's Review: Tell me if that sounds familiar... A group of dangerous thieves take over the mostly empty building and take other residents hostage while they work on stealing a fortune, meanwhile, one hero is accidentally trapped in the same building and sneaks around picking off the bad guys one by one. This is the 1988 classic Die Hard, right? yes, but so is the Janitor. You can find many other similarities, even including many of the same antics and plot events, but this all actually serves to make this rendition of the formula a little more enjoyable. The Doorman doesn't rise anywhere near the level of the must-see, but he stands well for scrutiny as for why he doesn't. The cast delivers decent performances, but lacks characters and gravitas that are as memorable as John McClane or Hans Gruber. Nevertheless, since the low bar is down throughout 2020, it's quite possible this is the best action movie I've seen so far. There's nothing new or revolutionary here, but if you've watched Die Hard too many times (is it possible?) and want to mix things up without changing lanes, the Doorman is a worthy distraction. The Grape Drama | Streaming: October 9 | IMDb Starring: Joe Pantoliano, Paula Brancati, Marco Leonardi An oppressed man experiences an ethical crisis and travels back to his hometown in rural Italy to recalibrate his moral compass. There, he finds a new purpose in reviving his grandfather's old vineyard, offering a sustainable future for the small town of Acerenza and re-interacting with his estranged family.
